The Art of Presence: Interdisciplinary Ethics & Excellence in Hospice Care

February 4, April 16, June 3,
August 5 and November 18
10:00 AM - 11:30 AM PST
5-Part Webinar Series

Presented in partnership with:
Missouri Hospice & Palliative Care Association, Hospice Council of West Virginia and Indiana Hospice & Palliative Care Organization

Compassion Fatigue and Team Health (Recorded Version Available)

Increasing demands in healthcare mean team performance suffers as an emotionally taxing profession becomes even more stressful. We will explore strategies for promoting healthier teams, the best source of retention, and marketing for an organization.

Beyond Money & Sex: Ethical Boundaries for a New Generation in Healthcare (Recorded Version Available)

Aside from the more blatant boundary breeches, there are subtle, insidious lapses that can also put everyone from patient to professional to organization at risk of burn out, poor clinical judgments, and low team morale. This presentation is suitable for all healthcare staff seeking to provide protection and improve the health of any organization.

How Not to (Unintentionally) Say Something Stupid - BE-ing with Those Experiencing Suffering and Grief (Recorded Version Available)

Discomfort with not knowing what to say leads us to abandon persons in distress or lapse into unhelpful clichés that create damage. We will explore our discomfort, the importance of being fully present, and a list of what to and not to say to guide the daily practice of all professional disciplines.

Spiritual Care for Patients Experiencing Dementia

Lack of understanding leads to great discomfort when working with patients experiencing dementia. Learn practical techniques to “find the person who is still there,” find our own centered space of comfort from which to engage with them, and tips for caring for their loved ones.

November 18: But I Didn't Go to Seminary: A Team Approach to Caring for Spiritual Distress

Many professionals feel uncomfortable when patients wish their providers to discuss issues of spirit with them. Others feel far too comfortable sharing their own faith, and unwittingly breach the boundaries of the profession. This presentation will demonstrate how to find the balance and show the appropriate ways to engage in this part of a person's care.
